

WAR HAS BEEN OFFICIALLY DECLARED

GREEK MINISTER HAS BEEN RECALLED

TURKS FIRE ON AND SINK A GREEK STEAMER

Announcement Made by a Newspaper in Brussels.

Greek Government Thereupon Orders the Bombardment of the Turkish Town Preveza, Which at Once Taken Place—Although the News is Slightly Contradictory, There is No Doubt, But Both Nations Realize That War is On—General Feeling is One of Relief—Uncertainty Ended.

Brussels, April 18.—The Independence Belge today announces that Turkey has officially declared war against Greece, and that a notification to this effect was sent to the press this morning.

Sinks a Greek Steamer.

Athens, April 18.—(Copyrighted, 1937, by the Associated Press.)—The Turkish batteries at Preveza, on the northern shore of the entrance of the gulf of Arta, where, according to the treaty of Berlin, the Turks had no right to erect fortifications, fired on and sank a Greek steamer, the Macedonia, this morning while she was attempting to leave the gulf of Ambracia.

The crew of the steamer was saved by boats from the shore, but the captain of the Macedonia was severely wounded.

Upon receipt of this news the Greek government sent orders to the Greek fleet in the gulf of Ambracia to bombard Preveza.

Consequently the bombardment of Preveza commenced at 6 o'clock this morning, and it continues as this dispatch is sent.

Preveza, which is in Epirus, and is miles from Arta, is strongly fortified.

The Turkish minister here, Asim Bey, has asked for his passport; he has been handed him and has left Athens for Constantinople. The German minister at Athens, Baron von Plessen, has undertaken to protect Turkish interests in Greece during the severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The Greek minister at Constantinople, Prince Maurocordato, has been recalled.

Throughout the day there were scenes of extraordinary excitement here. The streets were crowded with people eagerly discussing the outbreak of war and the probable outcome.

The general feeling was one of satisfaction at the relief from the irritating tension of the past few weeks, which had gradually become almost unbearable and which is added at last by the overt acts, it is contended here, on the part of Turkey.

The Greeks feel that it was an attempt on the part of the Turkish forces to occupy a strategic position near Mount Athos, not far from Mesoria, on the northern coast, which led to the outbreak of Friday between the Greeks and the Turks.

This, it is added, was used at Constantinople as a reason for ordering Euboea Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, to assume the offensive, and led to the rupture of diplomatic relations between the countries.

The so-called outrage of Preveza this morning when the Turkish batteries there sank the Greek steamer Macedonia, further justified Greece in the minds of the Athenians in waging war to the death against Turkey.

The Greek government therefore is warmly commended for recalling the Greek minister at Constantinople and for calling, according to the Greek version, until Prince Maurocordato was handed his passport.

It is again in some quarters that Asim Bey, the Turkish minister to Greece, did not wait for his passport to be handed to him, but as soon as he received the sum of 5,000 francs telegraphed to him from Constantinople through the Albanian bank, for travel expenses, etc., he hastily quitted this city. Little news of reliable nature has been received here or is allowed to leak out regarding the really important moves of the Turkish forces, however, that the whole frontier of Thessaly has been barred with machine guns since early this morning and that the Turkish forces have captured a fortified position at Metex, in Macedonia.

According to the general understanding here, the Turkish plan of campaign is a concentration of the Turkish army in Macedonia, with a view of forcing the mountain passes leading toward Larissa.

One report which is generally credited here is that Euboea Pasha, at the head of 10,000 men, has already begun his movement and rumors in this respect are floating, the substance of them being that the battle which is expected to be fought at or near Tyrnavos, and the attack upon this place having been anticipated and prepared for by occupying and taking every possible advantage of all strategic points. The country here is admirably suited for defense, and while the defense is undertaken, the Greek fleet is relied on to destroy the coast ports of Euboea and Macedonia. The Greek belief in ultimate success is based on the expectation of a universal raising of the Macedonians and Euboeans as soon as the Greeks succeed in winning a brilliant victory anywhere over the Turks.

Headquarters of the Turkish Army in Macedonia, Ellassona, April 17.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The correspondent of the Associated Press at this hour has just returned from Karyia, on the Greek frontier, near Tyrnavos, and has brought from here a fierce battle between the Turks and Greeks is now raging at Karyia. The fighting has been in progress all day.

The correspondent left the Turkish headquarters here on horseback this morning, and arrived at Karyia three hours later. The battle was then proceeding, and the correspondent was enabled to watch the fighting from a point near the tent of Hamdi Pasha, who is in command of the Sixth army corps, the Turkish force engaged. Hamdi Pasha, surrounded by his staff, was watching the movements of the opposition forces. The combatants were posted on a heavily wooded hill overlooking a small valley, a distance of about a mile.

It appeared that the Greek force, which was evidently composed of regular troops of Greece, crossed the frontier at 8 o'clock yesterday evening and advanced upon the valley referred to. The Turkish force, composed of four battalions of Turkish infantry, and after some sharp fighting, were driven back toward the frontier at 7 o'clock on Friday evening. The force, however, then took a position upon the crest of several hills, and the combat was resumed at 10 o'clock.

Among the casualties are considerable numbers of Serbian volunteers. At intervals of about two hours, the Greeks renewed their attack upon the Turkish position. The Turks remained calm and stood on the defensive, though suffering considerable loss. The number of killed and wounded among the Turks could not be ascertained at that time, but the correspondent saw 48 Turkish wounded brought to the rear, with the bodies of five Turkish officers. Only the wounded Turks and the bodies of the officers were being brought from the front to the field hospitals, hence the number of men killed could not be learned.

The dead were lying where they fell. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the correspondent left Karyia, more Turkish wounded were being carried toward the rear.

The Greeks appeared to be contenting themselves with occupying the position which they had taken upon the crest of the hills, and the officers were being brought from the front to the field hospitals, hence the number of men killed could not be learned.

While the correspondent of the Associated Press was at Karyia, Hamdi Pasha, the Turkish commander, received a dispatch from Euboea Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, saying that a general advance of the Turkish forces had been ordered for tomorrow. At the time Hamdi Pasha received the news of the declaration of war, he received news of a fresh attack by a Greek force in the direction of the Chalkidiki, to the north and left of Zorlos.

During the correspondent's return journey he heard further firing, both infantry and artillery, and it was not until after midnight, though a full moon was shining.

Edhem Pasha at this hour is holding council of war and it is expected that a great battle will be fought tomorrow. The Turkish troops are eager for a general engagement.

The weather continues very cold.

Turas the Other Fellow.

IS A MATTER OF GRAVE CONCERN

Eastern Situation Described in Diplomatic Circles.

PROBABLE DURATION OF THE CONFLICT

TURKISH MINISTER CALLS ON SECRETARY SHERMAN

John Says the Strictest Neutrality Must Be Preserved, and He Has No Fears But That the Citizens of the United States Will Be Ample Protected—Turkish Minister Insists That His Government is For Peace on Any Honorable Terms.

Washington, April 18.—The grave situation in the east was the topic of conversation here today. In diplomatic circles, particularly where the possibilities of a general conflict in Europe are always regarded as more or less imminent, if any of the powers become engaged in war, the situation is deeply considered.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

IS A MATTER OF GRAVE CONCERN

Eastern Situation Described in Diplomatic Circles.

PROBABLE DURATION OF THE CONFLICT

TURKISH MINISTER CALLS ON SECRETARY SHERMAN

John Says the Strictest Neutrality Must Be Preserved, and He Has No Fears But That the Citizens of the United States Will Be Ample Protected—Turkish Minister Insists That His Government is For Peace on Any Honorable Terms.

Washington, April 18.—The grave situation in the east was the topic of conversation here today. In diplomatic circles, particularly where the possibilities of a general conflict in Europe are always regarded as more or less imminent, if any of the powers become engaged in war, the situation is deeply considered.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

During the day the secretary had a call from the Turkish minister who remained with him a short time. The secretary declined to see him, but had conferred with him. It is customary, when a state of war has been declared, for the minister of the one country to be accredited to the government to which he is accredited, and a similar action is taken by the other country.

Options vary as to the probable duration of the conflict. One prominent officer of the navy inclined to the belief that fighting would continue for a short time, until the powers of Europe should decide that hostilities had proceeded far enough, when they would step in and put it to an end.

If any advice were received in this city today from the representative of the government in Turkey, or Greece, they could not be obtained tonight. Secretary Sherman had one dispatch from Mr. Weyland, however, and has not been translated.

WILL WAGE A WAR ON MARION BUTLER

Decision of the National Reform Press Association Committee.

IT WILL ATTEMPT A REORGANIZATION CALL FOR A NATIONAL CONVENTION JULY 4 NEXT.

It Reviews Some of the Recent Differences Between the Two Wings of the Party, But Asserts That These Differences Are Not So Wide But That the Party May Again Be Brought Together in Harmony—Fusion With Other Parties "Too Absurd to Admit of Argument."

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.

St. John, N. H., April 18.—Rev. D. Corbett, a Roman Catholic priest, fell from the third-story window of the bishop's residence early this morning and was instantly killed.

A Fatal Fall.